

The login page sends requests to check if it is valid user login

Controllers in Rails handle requests and send responses to the model

